

Core Course Descriptions

Introduction to English Language Teaching:

This course is specifically concerned to introduce students to ELT. The main purpose of this introductory course is to provide students with an understanding of aspects in which language learning takes place in classrooms, and an awareness of some aspects of the structure of contemporary English and the methodology used in teaching English as a Foreign Language.

Foundations of Linguistics:

This course is divided in two parts. The first part is intended to introduce students to the field of linguistics. It covers all the main areas of linguistics including phonetics, syntax and semantics. The second part is intended to introduce students to grammar, particularly in relation to English Language.

Language, Communication and Society:

The course aims at providing the basic tools required for the analysis of discursive communication and sociolinguistic issues. The course is divided into two parts. The aim of the first is to introduce key notions of language and communication (Pragmatics) and of the second part, to study the relationship between language and culture (Sociolinguistics). Key issues such as interaction of language with social class, ethnic group and gender are explored and analysed using materials taken from a variety of media including advertisement, interviews and conversational interaction.

Methodology and Practice of English Language Teaching:

This course examines current practice and developments in English language teaching, including communicative competence in language teaching and learning; teaching techniques; setting objectives; course design and mode of delivery; testing and assessment; language learners and the learning process. This course is designed to build on the introductory ideas and methods introduced at Level 4 (Introduction to ELT). When students have learnt essential techniques and methodologies in lesson planning, they will have the opportunity to observe classes, to teach classes, and finally to reflect on their experience.

Applied Linguistics:

This course is intended to help students become familiar with some key areas in Applied Linguistics. The course is structured in three main themes: A description of language and language use; Areas of enquiry in Applied Linguistics; Four skills and assessment. After an initial orientation of the key issues of the field, this course will provide students with a substantial overview of the key concepts, issues, insights and pedagogical implications of the three main themes.

Meaning in Language:

This course gives students a comprehensive view of all the components that contribute to the meaning in language (word meaning, context, syntactic structure). It completes the background about language analysis started at level 4 in Foundations of Linguistics. This course prepares students for Level 6 modules not only because of the content but also because it strengthens the development of analytical, logical and argumentation skills initiated at Level 4.

Language Teaching: Design and Practice:

This course elaborates on the second language learning methodologies studied at Level 5, and equips students with the theoretical understanding of the principles underlying the design and implementation of second language teaching materials. Students will learn how to design and produce their own materials. In their teaching practice the students will be able to develop teaching skills such as lesson planning, classroom management and other teaching techniques and to reflect critically on learner and teacher performance.
